

1. Preface

Entireti Limited (ABN 51 676 518 577) (Entireti) is the holding company of a group of Australian Financial Services (AFS) and Australian Credit (AC) Licensed entities. Fortnum Private Wealth, Fortnum Advice, Personal Financial Services, Akumin Financial Planning, Charter Financial planning and Hillross Financial Services are authorised under their AFSLs to provide personal financial advice to retail clients (Entireti Advice Entities).

Within the Research and Investment Services business a portfolio management capability exists whereby we are appointed and act as the investment manager by unrelated external Responsible Entities of registered managed investment schemes available on third party platforms.

Currently these services are provided by PFS Investment Management Pty Ltd ABN 39 609 946 616 (PFSIM), Corporate Authorised Representative No. 1241713 which is a wholly owned subsidiary of Entireti.

PFSIM is a corporate authorised representative of Personal Financial Services Ltd (ABN 26 098 725 145) (PFS) (AFSL 234459). PFS is a wholly owned subsidiary of Entireti and is also an Entireti Advice Entity. As a corporate authorised representative of PFS, PFSIM is an investment manager for managed investment schemes available on licensed platforms.

Please refer to the attached appendix which outlines our future intention to apply for a separate AFSL to act as an investment research and investment adviser to the group's licensed entities and potentially to external advisory groups.

2. Rebuttal Consideration

PFSIM charges an investment management fee, which is paid from the managed account client assets. Entireti asserts the investment management fee is permissible for the following reasons.

2.1 The recipient of the investment management fee does not provide financial advice to retail clients.

- (a) PFSIM is the recipient of the investment management fee.
- (b) PFSIM provides advice to wholesale clients (e.g. Responsible Entities) pursuant to investment advisory agreements.

- (c) Entireti, as the parent company and the recipient of any profits of PFSIM, does not hold an AFSL and it does not provide financial advice to retail clients.
- (d) The Entireti Advice Entities do not have employed financial advisers. Authorised Representatives in the network run their own businesses (Practices).
- (e) Practices charge their clients adviser service fees in exchange for the financial services they provide. Practices pay the Entireti Advice Entity a fee for the business support services they receive. Entireti Advice Entities pass on ASFs to the Practices, as it collects the ASFs on their behalf, but the Entireti Advice Entities do not otherwise pay a Practice for advice the Practice provides.
- (f) There is no flow of benefit from PFSIM to any of the Entireti Advice Entities or their Authorised Representatives and therefore the payment of an investment management fee does not cause a conflicted remuneration payment.

2.2 There is a separation of the investment advisory business from advice provided to retail clients.

- (a) There is legal and financial separation between PFSIM and the Entireti Advice Entities and their Authorised Representatives.
- (b) Members of the Investment and Research Services division who provide PFSIM's service are not directors or shareholders of any Entireti Advice Entity. Accordingly, the individuals who provide the investment management services do not have any control or decision-making capacity in the business conducted by the Entireti Advice Entity, or the advice provided by their Authorised Representatives.
- (c) The role of the EGM of Investment Services is of equal seniority with the CEOs of the Entireti Advice Entities, meaning none of those individuals are in a position of influence over the other with respect to the separate businesses they are responsible for.
- (d) The Entireti Advice Entities maintain Approved Products Lists (APLs) which contain a range of financial products, offered by a range of product issuers. Practices have a choice of more financial products, than the number of those where PFSIM is an investment manager, including products with other investment managers.
- (e) The decision to include products on the APLs of the Entireti Advice Entities is made by separate committees which include the associated CEOs of the Entireti Advice Entities.
- (f) Entireti has the controls to oversee the operation of PFSIM to ensure that no flow of benefit is passed on to an Entireti Advice Entity or its Authorised Representatives.

- (g) PFSIM will only enter investment advisory agreements with terms such that payment of the investment management fee is conditional that the payment is not a conflicted remuneration and that PFSIM warrants and represents to the RE that is the case. PFSIM provides the relevant Responsible Entity with a quarterly attestation, attesting that the basis for why the payment of the investment management fee is not conflicted remuneration has not changed.
- (h) Over the course of the engagement, these criteria were satisfied by PFSIM.

3. Explanation of payment flow / organisational structure

PFS and PFSIM are wholly owned subsidiaries of Entireti Ltd and operate as separate brands to the Entireti Advice Entities.

3.1 PFSIM

PFSIM will continue to operate as a corporate authorised representative of the PFS AFSL until such time as the grant of a separate AFSL (refer to appendix).

PFSIM will retain, separate to PFS:

- A management team reporting to Entireti Limited.
- A Board (with different directors from other Entireti subsidiaries) – Directors are John Carnevale and Glen Castensen.

- An investment committee, cost centre and financial reporting
- PFSIM's revenue derived from its activities is used to meet the direct costs of the PFSIM business with any excess paid to Entireti Limited.

There is no plan or intention to change this strategy.

3.2 Staffing

Entireti has circa 180 staff (including group CEO), of which 12 are investment professionals.

John Carnevale (Executive General Manager of Investment Services), Aman Ramrakha (Chief Investment Officer), Tim Schroders (Senior Research & Portfolio Manager) and Sean Webster (Head of Research Services & Portfolio Manager) are responsible for the portfolio management service.

Calvin Yap, Julia Tao, Frank Mach and Ekta Badola (Investment Analysts) support the portfolio management team. Nigel Douglas (Independent Chairperson) and Cindy Zhao (Manager, Investment Governance) also support the portfolio management business.

Entireti provides the governance structure, resourcing (personnel and infrastructure) as well as requisite financial support. Entireti also provides current Professional Indemnity Insurance.

An external investment consultant provides input into asset allocation and the proactive asset allocations settings and is a member of the PFSIM Investment Committee.

3.3 Remuneration and Performance measurement

The 3 key operational staff (Aman Ramrakha, Tim Schroeders and Sean Webster) of PFSIM are resourced from Entireti, under their employment contracts with Entireti Services Pty Ltd, they receive a base salary plus the prospect of receiving a discretionary bonus based on metrics that consider the performance of Entireti more broadly as opposed to being directly linked to the performance of the portfolio models they manage.

There are no performance fees charged by PFSIM in relation to the portfolios they manage. The PFSIM team's performance is assessed against several criteria these are:

- Performance of the portfolios relative to objectives and benchmarks
- Maintaining full compliance with the respective Entireti and PFS IM policies governing the conduct of staff and the operation and implementation of portfolio construction
- Ensuring risk management, portfolio reporting and communications are maintained to agreed levels and respective policy compliance

3.4 Consideration of any indirect benefits & equity ownership

Entireti is an unlisted public company with approximately 90 unique shareholders.

The Entireti staff (including ex-staff but excluding the founder) own approximately 24% of the issued capital.

Existing Advisers (Authorised Representatives of an Entireti Advice Entity) own approximately 37% of issued capital being:

- 74 advisers who are shareholders; and
- An average holding for existing advisers of <0.65% of the total issued capital.

The shareholding of each individual adviser is therefore relatively minimal. The shareholding of each adviser when assessed against the value (based on their average revenue and resulting profit) of their Practice is a relevant calculation.

For example, if Entireti declared a $500,000 total dividend to be distributed to shareholders, based on the average holding % an adviser would receive around $3,217. The adviser with the most significant shareholding would receive just under $25,000 (where the dividend represents their % of whole group revenue) noting the annual revenue for PFSIM's SMAs is less than 0.25% (of gross revenue) and 3% (of net revenue) of the fully consolidated Entireti group's income. See table below to illustrate the flow of benefits:

Type (as at 1 June 2025)		Number of Unique Shareholders	Total number of Shares on Issue	% per Type of Shares on issue	Average Holding per Type	dividend of $xk-->		Dividend on Average holding	Dividend on Minimum holding	Dividend on Maximum holding
						Equates to an ave. of X% of total Shares on Issue per Shareholder	Equates to an ave. holding per Shareholder of
Adviser - Existing		57	5,013,328	37%	87,953	0.64%	87,953	$3,217	$68	$24,287
Adviser - Retired		17	1,458,524	11%	85,796	0.63%	85,796	$3,138	$43	$16,256

There are no (nor has there ever been) KPIs or such like incentives or directions etc provided to any advisers to recommend the service or influence the advice provided to their clients. The ultimate test remains for any advice recommendation, and it is embedded in our "raison d'etre" – it must and can only be in the client's best interest.

The intent in providing the opportunity for advisers to be shareholders is to ensure the right checks and balances at the highest level of the organisation which includes having adviser representation on the Entireti board. We intend to continue engaging advisers with the opportunity to become shareholders, as part of our fundamental belief that it is optimal for the organisation to ensure advisers and staff have the opportunity to own equity in Entireti.

4. Conclusion

CFS Edge, BT Panorama, HUB24, Netwealth and Macquarie (the Platforms) are all included in the APLs of the Entireti Advice Entities.

This means that Authorised Representatives of the Entireti Advice Entities are able to continue to provide to client's personal advice on, and recommendations to invest into the Platforms.

The Platforms are on the Entireti Advice Entities APLs because of such factors as:

- objective and independent research on each product;
- suitability for the client demographics of Entireti Advice Entities' Authorised Representatives;
- breadth of investment selection offered; and
- the degree of market penetration.

In the underlying investment options available through the Platforms, certain model portfolios where PFSIM is the appointed investment manager allow PFSIM to derive a fee (the Investment Manager Fee) for its functions as investment adviser.

PFSIM asserts that the structure of the Managed Portfolios, and the appointment of PFSIM:

- a) does not cause a breach of the conflicted remuneration provisions entrenched in the Corporations Act (including that the presumption in s.963L); and
- b) complies with regulatory expectations set out in ASIC Regulatory Guide 246 (and importantly RG 246.43), for the reasons detailed above and summarised below.

1. PFSIM does not provide advice to retail clients.
2. The group is structured so the investment management business of PFSIM is conducted separately from the Entireti Advice entities to avoid influence on financial advice provided by Authorised Representatives.

3. No incentive or benefit is derived by Authorised Representatives of the Entireti Advice Entities because of recommending the Managed Portfolios which differs from the fee derived for a recommendation to a managed portfolio in which PFSIM is not the appointed investment manager.
4. No benefit is derived by the Entireti Advice Entities because of recommending the Managed Portfolios. The Investment Manager Fee is derived by PFSIM and retained it in its own corporate right.
5. Any dividend payment an existing adviser may receive as a shareholder of Entireti is paid from profits of the whole group, 0.25% (gross revenue) and 3% (net revenue) of which is derived from investment management fees. As such financial advice provided by a Shareholder Adviser would not be capable of being influenced by the receipt of a dividend, as investment management revenue forms a minimal portion of overall revenue. Especially in circumstances where the average shareholding of an existing adviser is 0.64%.
6. PFSIM does not pay or give any benefit to the Entireti Advice Entities or their Authorised Representatives.
7. The internal procedures and processes of the Entireti Advice Entities which Authorised Representatives must follow include the best interests' duty and related obligations to the clients are paramount and exclusive to all other considerations.
8. Disclosure of related party arrangements are required through the advice process including where benefits are received by a related party.
9. The only commercial connection between PFSIM and PFS is that, for the purposes of delivering its investment advisory services, PFSIM derives its licensing authority to do so under the authorised representative appointment given by PFS. This is a structural relationship only which is anticipated to change (refer appendix).

APPENDIX C: Entireti Licensing Services Pty Ltd – AFSL application

Applicant Name: Entireti Licensing Services Pty Ltd

Application No: 212111935

Date prepared: July 2025

Special status if any: Commercial-in-Confidence

Background to Application

Entireti Licensing Services Pty Ltd (ABN 24 686 094 217) ('ELS') ELS is a recently constituted wholly owned subsidiary of Entireti Limited (ABN 51 676 518 577) ('Entireti'), the holding company of a group of Australian Financial Services ('AFS') and Australian Credit ('AC') Licensed entities.

ELS has been formed to act as an investment research and investment adviser to the group's licensed entities and potentially to external advisory groups. This includes being appointed as the investment manager by unrelated external Responsible Entities of registered managed investment schemes available on third party platforms.

Currently these services are provided by another member of the group, PFS Investment Management Pty Ltd ABN 39 609 946 616 ('PFSIM'), Corporate Authorised Representative No. 1241713 which is a wholly owned subsidiary of Entireti.

PFSIM is a corporate authorised representative of Personal Financial Services Ltd (ABN 26 098 725 145) ('PFS') (AFSL 234459). PFS is a wholly owned subsidiary of Entireti Ltd. As a corporate authorised representative of PFS, PFSIM is an investment manager for managed investment schemes available on licensed platforms.

- interests in MIS including IDPS
- RSA products
- securities
- superannuation
- standard margin lending facility.

All the above financial services are to be provided only to wholesale clients.

Following receipt of its AFSL, ELS will appoint Entireti Services Pty Ltd (ABN 76 676 535 694) to provide it with the services required by an AFSL-holder to properly operate as an AFS Licensee and benefit from access to the Entireti group's resources (including human, technological, and financial) as are currently offered to the Entireti group's licensees.
